"Non-Personally-Identifying Information" is information that, without the aid of additional information, cannot be directly associated with a specific person. "Personally-Identifying Information," by contrast, is information such as a name or email address that, without more, can be directly associated with a specific person.

Like most Sites operators, we gather from users of the Sites Non-Personally-Identifying Information of the sort that Web browsers, depending on their settings, may make available.

That information includes the user's Internet Protocol (IP) address, operating system, browser type, and the locations of the Sites the user views right before arriving, while navigating, and immediately after leaving the Sites.

Although such information is not Personally-Identifying Information, it may be possible for the Sites to determine from an IP address a user's Internet Service Provider and the geographic location of the visitor's point of connectivity as well as other statistical usage data.

Policy
